

From: Aaron Pelley <aaron@nwmjlaw.com>
To: Anne [REDACTED]
Subject: Re: Monday
Date: Mon, Jan 29, 2018 7:23 pm

It was not supposed to go through. I did that last night and it went into review. They usually send a post card and it takes 4 weeks (as it did for the Pelley Law to NWMJ switch), which would be right on schedule for our closing. I am not trying to do anything we aren't planning to do and have discussed. As you lock me out of each of our vendor accounts and announce my departure long before we have a signed settlement. Am I to understand that as part of the process.

It doesn't matter. You don't trust me. You are on high alert for betrayal at every turn. Please just send me your redlines on the settlement so that I can work off your draft and get this over with.

On Jan 29, 2018, at 7:03 PM, Anne [REDACTED] wrote:

Really?

<https://www.google.com/search?q=aaron+pelley+law&ie=UTF-8&oe=UTF-8&hl=en-us&client=safari>

Sent from my iPad

On Jan 28, 2018, at 6:47 PM, Aaron Pelley <aaron@nwmjlaw.com> wrote:

Of course.

On Jan 28, 2018, at 1:02 PM, Anne van Leynseele [REDACTED] wrote:

Since I will be out at least Monday and possibly Tuesday, please feel free to give a limited reassurance to the team that you and I have come to an agreement to part ways amicably. Or somesuch assertions.

Sent from my iPhone